

Home Work

1. Network is a connection between computers in order to share or exchange different communications.
2. Internet is a network that makes communications between computers possible.
3. IP address is an address that gives a device it's identification.
4. A router is a device that sends data into computers.
5. ISP refers to a company that provides access to internet.
6. Packets are the smaller files of large data that are sent to your computer.
7. Client is or refers to a computer.
8. Server is a computer that serves informations to other computers.
9. Web page is a hypertext document.
10. Web server is a computer that stores website files
11. Web browser is an application that lets people access the internet websites.
12. Search engine is a software that helps people to search things that they desire on the internet.
13. DNS in a form is a server translator for example from name to ip address.
14. I'm using Google Chrome
15. I think I make a request to database for it to show me a list of what im searching.